VOTERS APPROVE BOND ISSUE TO PURCHASE DUNES

Other Property Also to Be Acquired by City

By a vote of the people authorizing a bond issue the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea has added to its possessions ten acres of sand dunes on Carmel Bay and an entire city block a short distance from the business section.

That interest in the proposed $15,000 bond issue was keen and wide spread is evidenced by the large vote cast on Tuesday. Balloting was lively all day. Before noon seventy-five citizens had voted, and when the polls closed at 6 o'clock 228 citizens had expressed their choice.

It is legally required that two-thirds of all the votes cast are necessary to carry a bonding proposition. The vote was 187 Yes and 41 No, thus the plan to issue bonds carried with thirty five votes to spare.

The next proceeding is the passage by the City Trustees of an ordinance recognizing the result of the election and putting into shape the machinery for the issuance and sale of bonds.

It is estimated the lands involved in this transaction are easily worth $50,000, so that the price asked by the present owners is a most liberal one.

In addition to the property above mentioned, the city is to acquire also, by deed of gift made by the Carmel Development Co., other sections of water front property, including the land upon which the bath house stands.

MacMurrays to Return

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick MacMurray returned to Monterey last week and are with Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Dolter, the latter's parents on Menros street until they come to Carmel to reside again. Mr. MacMurray has met with eminent success in San Jose and has left a warm circle of admirers of his unusual gifts in the mastery of the violin. His concerts and pupils will continue in the various towns and cities of the Peninsula, but his headquarters will be Monterey for the present. Tonight he will play at Arts and Crafts Hall here and on Friday afternoon he plays at the Civic Club in Monterey.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold "Budge" Everett are the proud parents of a baby boy. Mr. Everett was a frequent visitor in Carmel and Mrs. Everett has spent some time here since her marriage. They are now living at Fullerton, where Mr. Everett is ployed by the Standard Oil Company. The baby was born last week and was named Hulbert Hale Everett.

There will be a Bahai feast at the Thudichum home, Seventh ave. and Lincoln st., Saturday night at 8:30. This is the fete day of His Honor Abbas Effendi, Abdul Baha. The subject will be "Universal Disarmament," one of the principles of the Bahai movement. All interested in universal principles are invited.

Pine Needles

Mrs. Maude Arndt has again departed for Los Angeles. She will spend nearly all winter in the south.

The Carmel church on Lincoln street is soon to install a new heating system. The new apparatus has been ordered.

Major James S. Simmons, Medical Corps, U. S. A., is a visitor here, accompanied by his wife and child. They recently arrived from Honolulu.

Rev. Fred Sheldon and Mr. Douglas were away on a motoring trip last week. They visited in Oakland, Stockton, Sacramento and Marysville.

The Beattys are again here from Flossmore, Illinois. They will occupy their Pebble Beach home until January, when they will take a trip to China.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Taylor and daughter have rented a house in Monterey. They spend the week ends here. This plan will prevail during the winter months.

Earl Warren, who used to live here with his family, was a visitor for a few days last week. He recently returned from Alaska. Walter Warren, his brother, is bookkeeper for a Seattle fish packing concern.

W. L. Witherbee of Sacramento, well known to local people, was here for a few days last week. The Witherbees own real estate here, and may build upon their return from a contemplated journey abroad.

No excuse for anyone in Carmel going without a substantial Thanksgiving dinner today. All the hotels and eating places are offering special menus. All that is needed is the price.

Mrs. Harold A. Morgan of Pasadena, who has been spending the past two months in Carmel, went up to Stanford for the big game. Mrs. Morgan will be in Carmel till mid-December.

Though no actual construction on the soldier memorial dedicated on Armistice Day, is now going on, stone masons are busy trimming the chalk rock, preparatory to building. Rumor has it that a minstrel show is soon to be given to raise more funds.

Among San Franciscans who are spending this month in Carmel are Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Rockwell and their two sons. Plans had been made to spend the entire winter here, but they will be obliged to proceed to New York to remain until spring.

Constance Heron, Marion Ohm, David Prince and Belknap Bates are among the Carmel high school students who were in the cast of the four one act plays given in the Monterey high school auditorium last week. The plays were produced by Miss Ruth Radcliff.

Carmel is famous for something beside literature and art. At a recent poultry exhibit in San Francisco the turkey entry of Preston W. Search won first prize. That man in Maine, who annually sends a turkey to Washington for the President's dinner, had better look to his laurels.

The Thanksgiving service at the local Methodist church is to be held next Sunday morning.

The Jennings residence at Mission Point is completed. Mrs. Rufus Jennings is down from Oakland and has taken possession.

Nazimova, in "Toys of Fate," a seven-reel screen classic, is the feature to be shown at the Manzanita Theatre this coming Saturday night.

Mrs. B. W. Stone, long a Carmel property owner, is here from San Francisco. This city's building progress may induce her to acquire more property here.

R. H. Ohm has returned from the city, where he has been for a week, spending most of his time with the dentist. He took in the Granada opening.

Miss Mary J. Wilkeson left by motor the first of the week for a short stay in San Francisco. Miss Wilkeson has been at Pine Inn since the latter part of September.

The City of Carmel-by-the Sea has expended $300 to acquire a street grader. This is the first piece of street-work machinery to be owned by the city, and may be the forerunner of other repair equipment.

It used to be, and not so long ago either, that commercial drummers gave Carmel the go-by. Not so now. In a city of 1300 people the boys of the road find some fairly good pickings.

Weather permitting there will be a baseball game on the Eight-Acre tract this afternoon. Several dinner wagers have been made on the result. Teams will be 50-50 male and female.

Mr. and Mrs. Detlef Sammann and daughter are now living in a beautiful villa in Dresden, Germany. They were six weeks making the trip from San Francisco to St Nazaire, France. Their faithful dog Yolo accompanied them.

There will be Thanksgiving services this morning at 11 at the Christian Science church, on North Monte Verde street, at which testimonies of healing will be given. A cordial invitation to be present is extended to all.

Mrs. John B. Jordan of Pine Inn, returned from Oakland Sunday evening, after a week's stay with relatives. Mrs. Jordan was an interested spectator at the U. C. Stanford game, at Stanford Saturday, Berkeley being her alma mater.

The owners of the building wherein are located Carmel's municipal offices have notified the trustees that, beginning December 1, the rent will be raised to $40. Trustees Reardon, Dorwart and Murphy are a committee to find a new location.

Carmel people who witnessed the California-Stanford football game last Saturday include Ernest Schweninger, Talbert and Winsor Josselyn Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Van Riper, Katharine Cooke and H. W. Turner and daughter. California won—42 to 7.

OPPORTUNITY FOR CARMEL PLAYWRIGHTS IN PASADENA CONTEST

Last Year's Competition Proved to Be Great Success

Rules for the second annual play contest to be held under the auspices of the Pasadena Center of the Drama League of America have been issued by the play contest committee, of which Mrs. Holloway J. Stuart is the chairman.

So gratified are the officers and members of the center by the results of the first play contest held last season, that the one for 1821 22 is somewhat increased in scope.

"Peter," written by Miss Mabel Wightman of Pasadena, won the first prize for long plays in last season's contest and was produced for three weeks by the Pasadena Community Players, scoring one of the greatest successes for the Players' year. "Peter" is to be produced professionally in Los Angeles, with Robert Edeson in the name role.

"Where Shall Adelaide Go," a one act comedy of the present day, by Francis Livingston of Santa Barbara, won first prize for one act plays for last season. This also was a marked success in the repertoire of the Pasadena Community Players.

All manuscripts, to be considered, must be in the hands of Mrs. Alson S. Clark 1149 Wotkyns drive, Pasadena, Cal, on or before February 1, 1922.

THRIFT AND SAVINGS TAUGHT BY UNCLE SAM

In the Carmel postoffice is displayed a very effective poster—quite a work of art—depicting a man laying a cornerstone for the foundation of success. This is Thanksgiving Day, and blessings bestowed, when contrasted with opportunities overlooked, should awaken us to the importance of placing the cornerstone upon a firm foundation.

The importance and knowledge of thrift and saving has probably never been more necessary than at the present time. Youth as well as age should be taught the great value of such knowledge, for that which is impressed upon the receptive mind of youth will endure.

The United States government offers an absolutely safe investment of funds in any amount, based on the initial unit of a twenty five-cent thrift stamp yet this seemingly small amount may prove the stepping stone to future affluence.

Send in Your Checks

The building of the Memorial Fountain in Carmel-by-the-Sea, dedicated to "those who served", is now assured, the corner stone having been laid with appropriate ceremonies on Armistice Day.

A subscription list has been opened at the Pine Cone office, and it is greatly desired that all the friends who are interested in this worthy and beautiful testimony, whether actual residents or not, send in subscriptions as soon as possible.

CHRISTMAS DAY IN AFRICA

Christmas day in Africa! And what a dream of beauty and color, blue sea, blue sky, groves of eucalyptus and olive trees, climbing roses, white-robed Arab women closely veiled, their eyes only showing, bare brown legs and feet, sometimes a silver bracelet on one leg, donkey boys with a nondescript, flowing garment, a red fez on their heads; color everywhere. Our villa is charming, stands in a little wood of eucalyptus trees, with a big garden, balconies, terraces and marble steps, large, high rooms and lovely views on all sides, Mme. Waddington writes from Algiers to Scribner's. It is quite in the country, five or six kilometers from Algiers, very high up in the hills. Very few people live in the town and the whole hillside is studded with villas. Moorish almost all, dazzling white, flat roofs and narrow windows. Quite at the top, where we are, there are some very comfortable Eastern modern houses. I am writing at my window, which gives on a terrace, from which there is a divine view of the sea and the snow mountains of the Djurjura, miles away in Kabylie, and from one corner through the faded drooping leaves of the eucalyptus I have a glimpse of the town of Algiers, lying a long, white streak far below.

The drawing-room is a delightful room—runs all the width of the house, with windows on three sides, so that we always have the sun. The furniture is sketchy, not much of it, and what there is is very ugly, but when the Paris cases arrive, with a few tables and chairs and silver, the room will look very different. There are some carpets in the house, which are absolutely necessary, as all the floors are tiled. However, Charlotte has done wonders with the meager material she has.

THANKSGIVING

As each Thanksgiving day approaches it becomes more and more apparent to those who are in the habit of meditating upon affairs in general that the spirit of the occasion is one to inspire individual sensation, and that expression of that sensation falls short of the mark.

There is in the Thanksgiving season a sort of benign pause to the energies of the year, a subconsciousness of filled granaries and of hay packed in the barn loft, the cattle crunching in the stalls, and the drapery of the trees laid by for the approaching winter. It is the twilight of the year; the chores are done and the men folks come stamping at the doorstep. The dinner is steaming on the table and soon, the food eaten, we will settle down for the long evening.

BUYING AT HOME

Are you doing everything possible to promote the material welfare of Carmel? Are the merchants to blame because you trade out of town? If you want to spend your money in Carmel—to boost your home town—and don't do it, tell us why. Let's make an open forum of the case.

Money sent out of town for merchandise that should be purchased at home does not come back, and we and the town suffer for the thoughtless act of those who fatten the big city merchants at the expense of our commonwealth. If the trade of this community was kept at home our town would be more prosperous. The money we have earned would be in circulation, and would, in the course of business, come back to us perhaps several times in the course of a year; but that sent out of town does not come back. It is gone forever.

Wayside Shrines

The sun is up
And o'er the sandy lanes
The milkmaid weeds his early way;
And by the roadside
Sit the silent ones,
From eight to eighty,
Boudoir caps and all,
Patiently waiting for the hour to come.

Do milkmaids climb up
Weary flights of stairs
And put their wares in Icebox things?
No, not in Carmel-by-the-Sea
For here a maxim-house is made,
And into every client's hole,
The liquid stuff is laid.

REQUIREMENTS OF NEW HIGHWAY ACT

To get part or all of its allotment of the $75,000,000 of federal funds appropriated for road construction for the rest or the fiscal year, a state under the federal act must select a connected system not exceeding 7 per cent of its entire road mileage for improvement with government aid. This system is to be divided into two classes of roads, one consisting of interstate roads, which shall not exceed three-sevenths of the system selected and upon which not more than 60 per cent of the state's allotment can be expended without the joint approval of the secretary of agriculture and the state highway department. The other class, consisting of inter-county roads, will compose the balance of the system and receive the remainder of the allotment.

The amount of federal aid received on any project is not to exceed 50 per cent of the estimated cost, except in states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public land.

The federal fund is apportioned among the states by division into three parts, one apportioned on a basis of population, one on a basis of area and the other according to the mileage of rural and star mail routes.

Red Cross Gives $310,000 to Aid 'Clean-Up' Drive

An appropriation of $310,000 for Red Cross work in connection with the "clean-up" campaign instituted by the Government to bring the claims of all disabled service men who are entitled to Federal aid before the proper Government bureau for action, has been made by the American Red Cross. The Executive Committee of the American Red Cross in making the appropriation authorized the appropriation of $35,000 of this sum to the American Legion to defray the expense of the Legion representatives assigned to the various districts of the Veterans Bureau.

The remainder of the appropriation was authorized for apportionment among the several Divisions of the Red Cross for carrying on that part of the "clean-up" work that falls directly upon the Red Cross organization.

Home for Christmas

OUR hearts are all a-flutter, our faces all aglow,
The weather doesn't matter, it may rain or it may snow;
Dad and mammy, lad and lassie, and we babies laugh in glee
At the bustle of the students, hastening to the old roof tree—
All going home for Christmas.

And the old folks in the home nest, be it cot or mansion wide,
Thru open door sending welcome, on the flood of Christmastide,
To kith and kin and sometimes stranger, for this day of merry cheer,
Kept in hope and faith and loving, this one day in every year—
All welcome home for Christmas.

'Tis the birthtime of the Christ-child, we have kept two thousand years;
'Tis the glory of his life work shining thru a mist of tears,
'Tis the fragrance of the lilies that has come across the sea;
'Tis the love we bear our brother that brings peace to you and me,
Till we all go home for Christmas.

The Garden Beautiful

TREES, SHRUBS AND PLANTS FOR CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA GARDENS

To add to a great wild garden of forest, field, sea and mountains, as is Carmel-by-the-Sea, is a task which requires fine consideration. In fact, the wildwoods of old Carmelo are so beautiful in their native state that they can safely be left alone without "improvement" in the way of additional planting. And yet it is interesting to bring to this wild garden about the many new homes fair plant children from other parts of California, from other countries beyond the seas, to build up a new beauty richer in form, in color and in fragrance.

To this end the Pine Cone will later publish a list of trees, shrubs, climbers and plants whose beauty will not clash with the simplicity of the native Carmel woods. But before this is done precaution should be taken against indiscriminate planting of a lot of things, good enough in themselves, fine enough for a city garden, for planting on a vacant city lot, but which are a disturber of the wonderful simplicity which is the main charm of the Carmel woodlands.

Study a bit this simplicity and see how out of place is the voluptuous coloring of the geraniums, the artificiality of the double roses, the overwrought florescence of so many of the common garden hybrids, the exaggerated size, yes, and coarseness, of so many of these "cultured" plants and flowers compared to the charming modesty, the delicacy of coloring of the children of the wilderness.

Thus in selecting plants for Carmel gardens such should be excluded which speak of the handiwork of man, as much so as the arrangement in planting should as far as possible show no sign of human arrangement, that the spontaneity of the wild garden be not disturbed. To be explicit—avoid all artificiality in adding to the wild gardens of Carmel.

CHRISTMAS GREETING

"If wishes were horses then beggars might ride."
So sang Mother Goose in her well-known rhyme
But if wishes meant blessings, this glad Christmastide
Should bring to you joys past all telling of mine.

That giving is better than wishing I know,
And a "will for the deed" never paid a debt due
But when one is bankrupt in all save "good will,"
Be sure the "good will" may be honest and true.

So I wish for my dear ones their wishes fulfilled;
That of every good thing their share may be best;
Kind hearts love them truly, till all hearts are stilled
In the dreamless, untroubled, and infinite rest.

Can friendship do better? Could love ask for more?
I know nothing better, think nothing can be.
If you do, ask St. Nick when he stops at your door,
And say it was "specially ordered" by me.
—ANNA HUSTED SOUTHWORTH.

What Others Think

"WITH MALICE TOWARD NONE, WITH CHARITY FOR ALL. * * *"

The Pine Cone solicits articles or communications on constructive public improvement. We desire to give the fullest publicity to both sides of any controversy that may arise. We feel that the people of Carmel can and will discuss fairly and openly, without rancor or bitterness, matters pertaining to the collective life of Carmel. In order to promote a friendly constructive effort, we ask that all contributions be signed. Communications sent anonymously or signed with a fictitious name will not be published.

Carmel, November 15, 1921.

Editor Pine Cone:

The community has reason to be grateful to those who have undertaken the task of providing for the erection of a monument to our members of the service in the great World War. No one feels this obligation more deeply than the writer. And this communication comes in no spirit of unfriendly criticism.

But there is one detail in this monument's design with which many of us do not agree. That is the Mission Bell.

In the first place, this is to be a military monument, and the design therefore should be of martial suggestion. In the next place the Mission Bell is used, especially throughout the coast section of California, as the symboy for signposts marking the state highway.

Being in the position is occupies—on a portion of the main traveled highway near one of our most famous missions—the monument would certainly be mistaken by passersby if the bell is used as now planned. None of those strangers driving down San Carlos would ever dream it was erected to our young soldiers.

If one might volunteer a suggestion—why not substitute for the bell some such martial symbol as crossed guns or swords; the figure of a doughboy; or an eagle with outspread wings?

F. R. BECHDOLT.

Carmel, California, Nov. 17, 1921.

Editor, Pine Cone:

I have read, in your paper, regarding the new memorial to be erected here in honor of those who served which is surely a laudable proceeding. On glancing at the picture, however, which resembles the campanile of the Mission of Pala, it occurred to me that this design is somewhat incongruous to commemorate the service of our soldiers. Instead of a Mission bell would not some other symbol be more appropriate to carry out the idea for which the memorial is erected?

Let us hope, however, that no cannons, swords, or any other warlike paraphernalia will be used. We have seen enough of the horrors of those implements without being reminded of them every time we pass up the street.

Trusting the designer of the memorial will pardon this frank suggestion which is made solely from interest in the matter.

Very truly,

L. S. SLEVIN.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

"The Life of a Simple Man," by Emile Guillaumin. A novel which has received an award from the French Academy is not to be treated lightly. A novel with a foreword by Edward Garnett is equally sure of respectful consideration. When, as in the case of the present book, the introductions are brought together, we may feel very sure that we have a book of more than usual interest. It is in fact a human document, absorbing and surprising in its truthful and unaffected revelation of the life of a French tenant farmer. The background is the picturesque Old World scenery. The life is none too well known to us, since most French literature which has been brought out in the United States has centred about Paris.

Some time ago, it will be remembered, W. Somerset Maugham wrote a novel entitled "The Moon and Sixpence," and shortly after its publication its hero's exploits in art and love were discovered to be based on certain episodes in the life of Paul Gauguin, the French artist. Immediately interest was reawakened in this strange personality, and among recent volumes devoted to him is one by John Gould Fletcher. Its title is "Paul Gauguin, His Life and Art." It contains a number of reproductions of his paintings.

o+o

The memoirs of Lyman Abbott are entitled "Silhouettes of My Contemporaries" and is a collection of intimate sketches of the great by one of them. Lyman Abbott believes that all outstanding personalities—makers of history—have some salient characteristic that can be brought home to the reader just as effectively through a brief sketch as a long biography.

o+o

The few national holidays that we celebrate represent but a small fraction of the great days in American history on which some important discovery, some brave deed, some great inventions, has helped to make our nation what it is. The events of these great days almost constitute the history of the country, and their stories, as told by L. Lamprey in "Days of the Discoverers", are interesting and exciting. In this volume we have the stories of some of the great days in the period of the discoverers. We have Columbus on the day he first glimpsed America; Balboa as he reached the shores of the Pacific; Hendrick Hudson sailing up the River; Cortez; John Smith and other men who made history. In each story is found the interest and the accuracy that have given the author's previous books such a sure place in worthwhile literature for young people.

Parents, librarians and teachers of history will find this volume invaluable as supplementary reading for regulation study in history and the young reader will find adventure and romance of the finest flavor.

o+o

"Westminster Abbey—Its Memories and Its Message," by Mary Sturgeon, is an account of the famous Abbey from the point of view of its connection with English life. The author sees in it the expression of the national character, the embodiment of the soul of the English nation. She treats her subject broadly, not pretending to give a detailed historical or architectural account of the structure and its contents, but rather pointing out the significance of what a visitor to the Abbey sees. Her book is therefore valuable either as a record for after study or as a preparation for the intending visitor.

The drawings of Louis Wierter are exquisitely done and make an unusually beautiful volume.

o+o

Witches and fairies and giants figure in "Witches Hollow", a story for little children by A. W. Brooks. If the fairies are very good, the witches are unusually wicked, while the villain—as all villains should—causes many anxious moments. Thus the thrilling adventures of the woodman's three children make an ideal Christmas gift book for young folk who will not lay it aside until satisfied of the final safety of the adventurers and the triumph of the beautiful fairy.

The eight pages in full color and the numerous black-and-white illustrations by Charles Folkard make the book unusually attractive.

A TEST OF FAITH

(Chattanooga News.)

We have frequent occasion to protest against the efforts of Japan to impose her dominion upon unwilling peoples, yet we have thus far failed to exemplify the ideals which we recommend to Japan. If we should withdraw our sovereignty from the Philippines, in accordance with our repeated promises, we could the more consistently ask Japan to follow a similar course toward Shantung, Manchuria and Siberia. Our plea would have a great deal more force if we could make it with clean hands. To say that the Philippines are not ready for independence is merely to express an arbitrary, gratuitous opinion. It is perfectly easy to create conditions—in one's own mind—that no people ever could comply with. Our delay about respecting our own pledge is a reflection on our national good faith and a constant invitation to international complications in the far east.

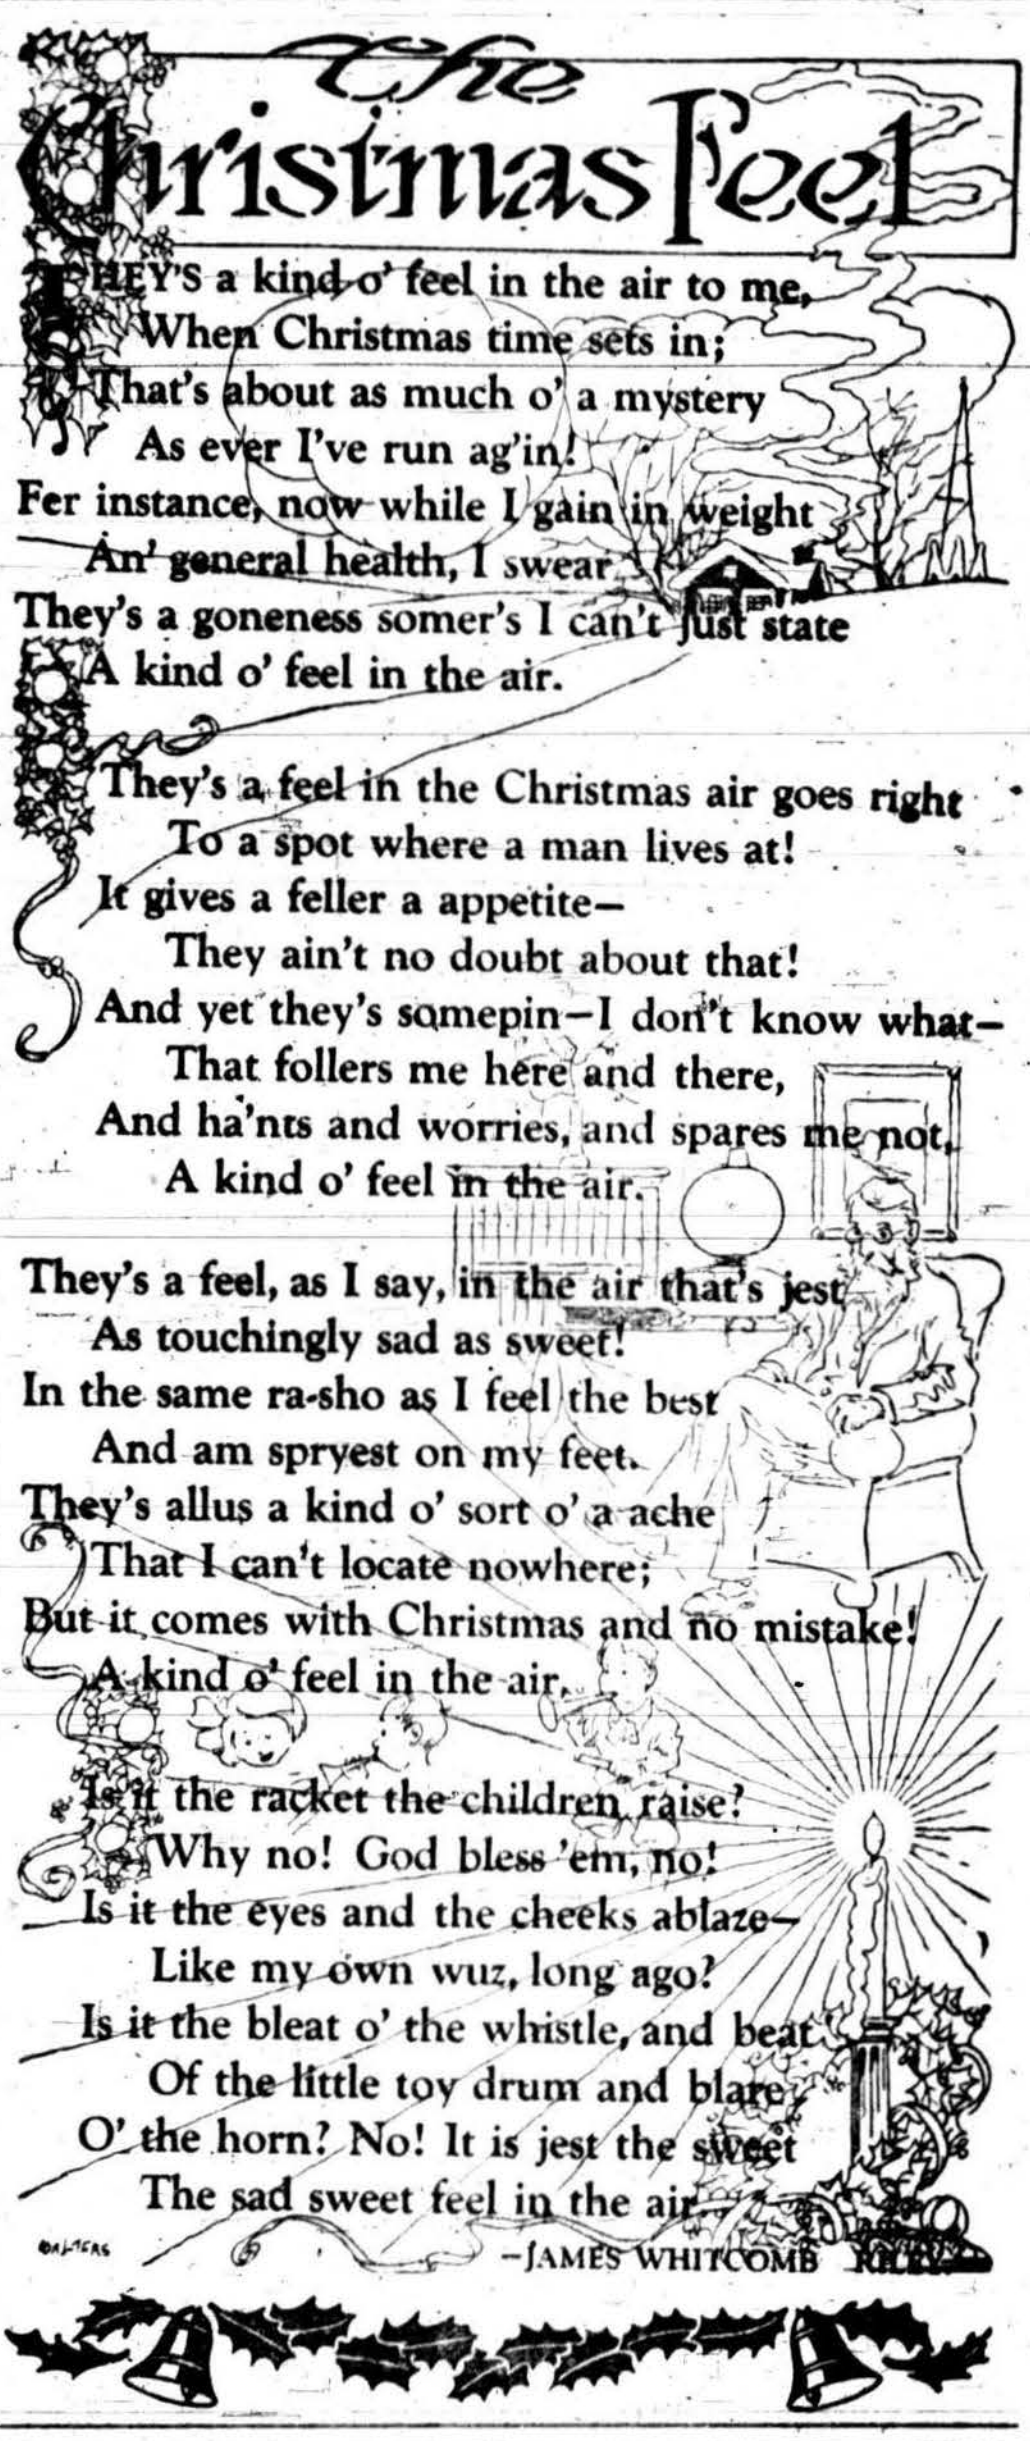
The Christmas Feel



THEY'S a kind o' feel in the air to me,
When Christmas time sets in;
That's about as much o' a mystery
As ever I've run ag'in!
Fer instance, now while I gain in weight
An' general health, I swear
They's a goneness somer's I can't just state
A kind o' feel in the air.

They's a feel in the Christmas air goes right
To a spot where a man lives at!
It gives a feller a appetite—
They ain't no doubt about that!
And yet they's somepin—I don't know what—
That follers me here and there,
And ha'nts and worries, and spares me not,
A kind o' feel in the air.

They's a feel, as I say, in the air that's jest
As touchingly sad as sweet!
In the same ra-sho as I feel the best
And am spryest on my feet.
They's allus a kind o' sort o' a ache
That I can't locate nowhere;
But it comes with Christmas and no mistake!
A kind o' feel in the air.

Is it the racket the children raise?
Why no! God bless 'em, no!
Is it the eyes and the cheeks ablaze—
Like my own wuz, long ago?
Is it the bleat o' the whistle, and beat
Of the little toy drum and blare,
O' the horn? No! It is jest the sweet
The sad sweet feel in the air.

GIVE!

IF it be true (and folks there are
This legend who believe)
That every year the Christ Child walks
Our earth, on Mary's Eve,
How much of suffering He finds
To make His kind heart grieve!

So many starving babies, pinched
And whimpering with cold,
Such piteous wee faces drawn
With hunger, gray and old!
A hundred needy cases? Oh,
The half has not been told!

And we, whose homes are holly-wreathed,
And gay with Christmas trees,
What have we done to merit cheer
And comfort — more than these?
(The Child with sad and puzzled eyes Must wonder, as He sees!)

Then, ere the birth-morn of the Babe,
Give gladly, every one,
As this past year has prospered you,
That some poor little one
May know a tithe of Christmas joy
Before the Day is done!

The great German conductor-composer, Richard Strauss, arrived in New Yok for his concert tour of the United States. This is the second of the great conductors of Europe to arrive, the forerunner having been Selim Palmgren, the foremost conductor and composer of Finland, who was heard not long ago in his first New York recital, and who created a most favorable and lasting impression, as did his wife, Madame Maikki Jaernefelt, who also appeared in a debut recital a few evenings later.

Cecilia Beaux of New York has been awarded the Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Logan medal and $1500 for her painting, "The Dancing Lesson," at the thirty-fourth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture at the Chicago Art Institute.

The Potter Palmer gold medal and $1000 was given to Charles Grafly of Philadelphia for his portrait bust of the late Frank Duveneck, noted Cincinnati artist.
